Break the Silence Sunday : 22 November, 2015

This year the Diocese will once again be commemorating Break the Silence Sunday as part of our commitment to eliminating violence against women and children. In setting aside a Sunday to highlight our church's response to addressing this problem, we join the many voices, both nationally and internationally, who are publicly declaring that violence against women and children is unjust and must not be condoned.

Enclosed are the liturgical resources that have been prepared by the Christian talanoa network working in partnership with the House of Sarah. They are in the English, Fijian and Hindi languages.

I commend these resources for use in the Diocese on Sunday 22 November. Let us stand alongside the victims/survivors of violence and assure them of our love and care.

Winston Halapua
Archbishop of Polynesia.
